

NEW ENGLAND LEATHER ALLIANCE

Presents

FETISH FAIR FLEAMARKET® 19

February 17-19, 2017

Crowne Plaza - Warwick, RI

“We hold these truths to be self-evident...”

We know that these are troubling times, and that many in our community are afraid for their right to openly be who they are, and even for their safety. Many are afraid that what is yet to come may be worse. And so, before our traditional welcome, we want to remind you of the New England Leather Alliance’s mission. NELA remains dedicated to making a safe place in the world for all leather / fetish / BDSM people through education, advocacy, and charitable giving. And our support of that mission shall neither falter nor wane, regardless of recent events, regardless of the political climate, regardless of what the future may hold. NELA will continue to pour the entirety of its energies into making a safe space for ALL of us in the leather, fetish and BDSM communities, not just throughout this weekend, but throughout all the days to come. NELA has endured for a over a quarter-century, and our commitment to supporting our community’s unalienable Rights – including the right to proudly embrace and live out our lifestyle, our sexualities, our very identities – will not waver.

And so we therefore proudly welcome you to NELA’s 48th Fetish Fair Fleamarket®. We welcome you once again to our homes, the Crowne Plaza Warwick and the Holiday Inn Express Warwick, for our traditional Presidents’ Day Weekend Winter Fleamarket. We hope you have a fun, safe and enriching experience. Please respect the hotel as if it were your home; please be responsible and courteous in all that you do while here, and represent our community proudly. Our event has never allowed nudity, and we ask that in public spaces, especially areas outside our checkpoints, you exercise good taste. All of us differ in our abilities and skills, so please be mindful of those who might not be as agile or facile. What we do is based on consent, plain and simple; we ask that you embody the ideal of consent in everything that you do. If you feel unsafe or uncomfortable at any time, please seek out a NELA Board member or a member of our Safety Staff or our Incident Response Team, or if none are available, a member of the hotel staff. If you are feeling unwell, we have arranged for the medical services of Operation Hammond to assist you.

NELA is a 501(c)3 non-profit organization; we use the FFFs to provide not only in-event education and community group involvement, but also to generate the finances to support our work year-round. Please come by our table all weekend and get or update your NELA Associates Benefit Card (ABC), which entitles you to free or reduced-rate admission to NELA events throughout New England, discounts on merchandise from a number of vendors, and discounts to get into many other non-NELA events. Revenue from the NELA merchandise we offer in return for donations also supports our work, so if you purchase a NELA t-shirt, hoodie, lunch box or other item, you’re helping to support our advocacy and charitable giving. Our charitable giving, and our support of a range of special programs, help strengthen our community. We support other worthwhile organizations both at home and across the country like The Network/La Red, AIDS Care Ocean State (see them in Room 126 Saturday and Sunday again this year for free HIV and Hep C testing!), and the NCSF. We also have special programs like the ‘Ayem Willing’ Volunteer Travel Fund, which assists volunteers to travel to events and return with education which they might not otherwise be able to reach.

As with most community organizations, the lifeblood of our organization remains our volunteers. Now in its 26th year, NELA has for over a quarter-century been able to exist as part of, and help serve, the New England community of leatherfolk, solely because of those volunteers. Everyone from the wristband checkers to the Board of NELA have devoted their time, energy and abilities to make the FFF one of the largest and best BDSM events in the nation. We wish to offer a sincere thank-you to everyone who has volunteered when needed, in the past or present. Without you, NELA wouldn’t be here today.

And so through the efforts of our volunteers NELA continues its advocacy to help our world become a safer and happier place for those of us in our varied communities to be able to express our sexuality, and our focus on our mission remains unchanged. Your attendance here this weekend at the FFF helps support that mission, and we thank you for joining us; may your pursuit of Happiness be fruitful.

Incident Response Team

If anyone has an issue, a concern, conflict, violation, or suspected violation that interferes with your enjoyment of the Fetish Fair Fleamarket, NELA has engaged an Incident Response Team (IRT) to respond and help.

How to find us:

The Incident Response Team (IRT), trained in Conflict Resolution Facilitation (CRF), will be available 24/7. If anyone needs assistance please contact a member of the NELA Board/Flea Staff, Security, Operation Hammond/Medical or a Dungeon Monitor (DM) and ask them to contact a member of the Incident Response Team.

How it works:

Incident Response Team members will meet with anyone who comes to us with a concern or a report of an incident. This meeting will be in a quiet location to provide a measure of privacy and safety. If we need to meet with another party or parties we will attempt to locate them and will then meet with them in a separate quiet location. We do not bring the parties face-to-face to discuss issues unless all parties request and consent to this.

The essential premise is that the best understanding of a situation comes from a calm discussion and by engaging all possible perspectives. This becomes a means towards a constructive decision by the participants regarding what actions may need to be taken. It is hoped that this will lead to the resolution of the issue at least for the duration of the event. All meetings will be held in private and details will not be discussed with anyone outside of our team and the parties. The ultimate goal is a mutual agreement when possible. If a mutually agreeable resolution is not possible or appropriate, the issue will be referred to NELA Board for a determination. If necessary, police, ambulance, and other emergency services will be called.

Uncertainty and Questions? – Early Intervention:

We often see concerns come up after an event is concluded. Frequently this is because it takes time to work through thoughts and feelings about something and then build up courage to come forward. We want to encourage anyone with a concern to reach out to us early. If you are not sure whether something that happened was right, wrong, or questionable we would be happy to support you, to listen to your concerns, and provide feedback.

Who are the Incident Response Team members?

The team is comprised of volunteers, all of whom are trained Conflict Resolution Facilitators (CRF). Most of the team consists of individuals with a counseling and/or social work background. Many have worked in victim's services, and all have been trained in the Conflict Resolution process. The team intentionally consists of a diverse group of members, representing different identifications, genders, and roles, but all team members are selected based on their ability to be sensitive towards, supportive and helpful to people of any background or orientation. Our team's diversity may allow participants to choose a CRF most closely aligned with themselves if they so desire.

NELA Board Reporting Process:

The Incident Response Team will provide representatives from the NELA Board (producers of the Fetish Fair Fleamarket) with a summary of the reported incident and indicate if the matter had a mutually satisfactory conclusion or if NELA Board will need to take further action. The IRT members are independent third party volunteers and are not members of the NELA Board.

Photography

Attendees, Vendors, Presenters and NELA Volunteers and staff are prohibited from taking pictures or video in any public area of the venue. Public areas are "Any area in the hotel that is not a privately-rented hotel room."

The FFF respects your privacy; however, please recall that you are at a public event, and you are your own best protection. The Fetish Fair Fleamarket, NELA, our host hotels, and our partner sponsoring groups and producers will not be liable in the event that your picture is taken.

Camera phones and video phones are everywhere, but we're asking you not to use them or any other cameras in any public space. Reports of your unauthorized photography or recording of any kind will result in your being removed from the event without refund. Please keep this in mind and avoid even the appearance of photographing/videoing others.

Please note that there will be some NELA-authorized photographers present at this event. You should be aware of them, if you do not want to appear in any picture. All authorized photographers will have a badge that they will display at all times, and they are required to obtain your explicit permission before taking any photograph (even if your face is obscured). These are the only photographers allowed.

If a photographer asks you to pose for a photo and you agree, please be sure to sign a photo release form.

It is proper procedure for authorized photographers to ask first before taking a photo. Harassing attendees for photos is forbidden. If someone pressures you for a photo, or takes an unauthorized photo "on the sly" please report it to NELA staff or volunteers immediately. If you think you have been photographed without your consent, you have the right to demand the film from the photographer or to check their digital files and delete the ones you are in.

Attendees entering into agreements to be photographed privately are strongly encouraged to check the references of the person they are dealing with, to have someone they know and trust with them during any private photo shoot, and to resolve all issues of compensation and the rights to the images before beginning a private photo shoot.

Violation, Conflict, and/or Crisis Support and Response Incident Response Team at Fetish Fair Fleamarket If you experience a Consent Violation, Interpersonal Conflict or Crisis:

Incident Response Team (IRT) members are available 24 hours per day throughout the event to assist you. If you experience any disturbing issues or problems while attending the event, please contact anyone on NELA Board/Flea Staff, Security, Operation Hammond/Medical or a Dungeon Monitor (DM) and ask them to contact a member of the IRT team. All concerns will then be discussed in a quiet and private space.

The Incident Response Team is comprised of long-term community members who are trained in Conflict Resolution Facilitation (CRF). This is a process of non-violent communication and negotiation techniques designed to engage those involved in a conflict to try to find a peaceful solution. The goals of the process are first to support any injured party, then to develop an understanding of where and how a conflict arose (recognizing that other parties will have different understandings), and to support a peaceful resolution if desired or possible between the parties. The ultimate goal is to support all parties being able to return to enjoying the event.

Dress Code

The Fetish Fair Fleamarket® does not allow nudity in any public areas of the host or overflow hotel. “Sidewalk Friendly” attire is required, which is not the same as “Street Legal.” “Legal” means a thong and pasties – but we have always required a bit more to ensure the comfort of all attendees. This means that butts and breasts must be fully covered; no breasts covered only in Liquid Latex or by something sheer or see-through with nothing else under[neath] it. We understand that this is a kink event, but please remember that our goal is to make everyone comfortable – not only our guests, but the hotel staff and airline guests as well. Please keep that in mind when you choose your outfits, and help us make sure that we get re-invited each year to this wonderful venue. Your cooperation and support is crucial to our success, and we love you all for it – and we also think you all look hot, even if we can’t see your naughtier bits in the hallways :)

FFF Private Event and Party Policy

The only official play party hosted by NELA at the Fetish Fair Fleamarket® takes place in the Crowne Plaza Hotel’s Plaza Ballroom and Foyer area Saturday from 6:00PM - 2:00AM. All other gatherings involving play or sexual activity are considered private events.

Private events must remain inside the guest bedrooms at all times with doors leading to the hall kept closed, and shall not impede or block any hallway, fire escape, or flow of foot traffic.

Our commitment to the hotel is, in essence, to make sure that no one has a reason to feel uncomfortable with our presence. We strive to build a solid, trusting mutually beneficial relationship with the hotel for years to come. Please respect our venue!

Locations of private events within the host or overflow hotel may not be advertised in any way, shape, or form; please invite people to your event by direct invitation only.

Please be mindful of noise or any behavior that may be disturbing to other guests or hotel staff.

Violation of this policy may be reason for terminating the party or ejection from event areas without refund.

Transgender Etiquette

There are many people who are transgender (Transexual, Gender Queer, Crossdresser, Gender Variant, and more) in our community. People who are transgender and/or whose gender identity or expression does not conform to stereotypes of male or female often face discrimination and harassment, particularly when accessing public events and spaces, especially restrooms. To be inclusive and improve the quality of life for members of our community who are transgender and attending the FFF, please read and act upon the following:

Restrooms

One way of acknowledging the needs of all people regardless of their gender identity/expression is to designate restrooms that are gender-neutral, and to support people in using the gender-designated restroom that they identify with. Many people face harassment in public bathrooms based on their perceived sex or gender identity; this can lead to anything from emotional discomfort, to arrest, or even murder. Regardless of which restroom you choose to use, please let everyone use the restroom of their choice in peace. Gender-neutral restrooms are located throughout the hotel.

Pronouns

A person’s external appearance may not match their internal gender identity. You cannot determine the gender or sex of someone by their physical body, voice, appearance or mannerisms. It’s best to ask people “What pronoun do you prefer?” before using pronouns or gendered words. In group situations where you don’t have an opportunity to ask someone what words they prefer, try using gender-neutral phrases like “the person in the red shirt,” instead of “that woman or man.”

Privacy and Respect For All Participants

Please respect the privacy and boundaries of people who are transgender, and do not ask unnecessary questions – your personal curiosity, while well-meaning, may be distressing to a person who identifies as transgender. If someone discloses they are transgender, do not “out” (expose the identity) of the person who is transgender to other people. The person who is transgender may feel comfortable coming out to you, but may not wish to be out to other people. Please treat everyone as you wish to be treated.

Cecilia Tan

Call it the weather (which was a steady millennial rain), call it the post-project blues (or burnout, more like), call it whatever, but for weeks I'd been home, restless but without the energy to do much, no interest in dinner with friends or concerts or much of anything. This is the life of a technolinguist, I told myself. A few months of neuron-burning, sleepless intensity, interfacing and trying to keep up with a project, and then a few months of dullness and checking my bank balance. Cleaning my office. Playing video games. Every night I sank into bed with the vibrator and thought nothing more of it.

At least, that was the way it was for the first week or so. And then it began to sink in that maybe I really ought to go out and get laid. Such an expression, "get laid," but apropos--I wanted to be laid down, pressed flat under another human being's body, cruelly literal but true. It had been a couple of years since I'd had time to maintain or look for a regular relationship. I mean, even I can admit that I'm not the most fun to be around when I'm talking like a machine and I can't tell anymore whether the blue in the sky is real or optic nerve burnout. I didn't think of what other complications might have kept me unattached, of course not--I'm into cognitive intelligence, not psychology.

It sank in one night when I was, literally, twiddling my thumbs and thinking about the motor mechanism of habitual motion. I looked at the liquid silver display morphing the seconds on my wall. Only nine pm. I could suit up, head down to the Market and try my luck. As soon as I thought of it, energy came to me and I ran to the bedroom to brush my hair and make myself presentable.

Communications is my business, it's true. The communion between human and machine becomes more intertwined every day. We need it now, our economies and political outcomes and resource allocation and transportation--computers handle it all, and humans need to work harder and harder to keep up. Yeah so anyway, I was muttering to myself all the way there to make sure I remembered how to actually talk to people. Please, thanks, how you doing? The rush of air around my helmet meant I could only hear myself subvocally.

At the Market, the music never stops, but in some parts of the club it's louder than others. I like the loud part, which is also the darkest part, usually. But if I was going to meet anyone, that was a sucky place to wait. Just in case, I made myself an ILLUMIPRINT card that read "I just want somebody to treat me rough, fuck me silly, and keep my safety the top priority" in glowing green letters when stroked. The card was in the back pocket of my jeans. I caught a glimpse of myself in the mirrored side of the bar's cash register. Disaster, probably, I told myself. I hadn't been able to decide butch or femme, and ended up in just a t-shirt and jeans, my riding boots unglamorously scuffed. But well, I actually rode a two-wheeler, unlike most of the posers in here. Well, whatever. I checked my signals to make sure they were in place: the black ribbon around my throat officially pegged me a bottom, the red one looking for sex. To me the red one was redundant--what was the point if they didn't fuck you? But some people swore No Sex, so you had to know somehow. I always said those people should have worn a Band-Aid or surgical mask or something, but the system wasn't exactly designed by semantic experts. Before my time, you know.

Bill, the one bartender I knew, was too busy to talk. There wasn't anyone else there I recognized. No matter how little time has gone by between when you last visited a place and the current time, if it feels like a long time has gone by you can be sure there has been some disconcerting piece of renovation done since the last time. The reverse is also true, that the renovation itself can make you feel like you haven't been there in forever. I struck a pose near a new-looking holographic fountain and waited.

The waiting's the boring part so I won't tell you much about it other than that my thoughts were high on the statistical list of what 90% of the other people in that place were thinking: what if I don't meet anyone? what if I meet some psycho? what if I embarrass myself? what if s/he wants to get serious? Just because I know the stats doesn't make me any less common in that respect. Anyway, to cut to the chase.

When "he" came along, I was almost convinced that I should give up and leave. He had his hair cut short, peach fuzz short, and somehow the way that it revealed the hardness of his head was sexy, like he was one giant erection. He walked up to me, flicked his eyes toward my ribbons and said "Does that say it all?"

I palmed the card to him and he looked at it, chuckled to himself. "I don't know..."

"Don't know what?" I burst out. "What do you want me to do?" He had dark eyes, dark skin, but I couldn't guess where he was from. He couldn't have been any older than me.

He rummaged in his leather jacket for a second and jutted his chin toward the back of the bar. I turned to take a step in that direction but didn't want to take my eyes off him.

His hand on my shoulder propelled me into the men's room. (It was somehow less objectionable, even in this day and age, for a woman to be caught in the men's room than the other way around.) He pushed me into a stall, sat me down on the lid of the toilet and told me to push my jeans down.

I did. Underneath I was wearing a g-string because I liked how it sawed at my clit. He propped my heels against his hips and spread my knees. From his inner pocket he took something small and plastic with wires that ended in small pads--my mind was already giving me two descriptions for it: the common me would have seen it as an old-time transistor radio with headphones, the technolinguist me wondered what the electrodes were for and whether he was going to read my brainwaves here in this muffled-dance-floor-scuffed-paint-sex-club bathroom stall. He squirted a small bit of jelly onto my clit from a tube and stuck the pads on either side of it. Then he pressed one small plastic piece against my clit while he held the other in his hand.

The plastic piece began to vibrate and my hips jumped. A weak vibration compared to what I had at home, but enough to make my breath quicken at first.

He stared down at me with his dark eyes, patiently it seemed, yet I wondered if I saw a hint of anger there. He moved the vibrator in a circle and I moaned and thrust myself against it harder.

"Does it always take you this long?" he said after a while, and I wondered how much battery power he had.

"No, not always," I said, my teeth a little gritted. "It's just..."

His eyes went back to the little box in his hand. "If you don't peg these meters, I'm not taking you home, understand?"

I nodded. I was aroused, of that there was no doubt, and I felt wetness drip down my open cunt to my ass. I looked back up at that hard cock of a head and wished he were doing it already.

"Are you holding back?" he asked, then.

"No! No, I swear. It's just... I've been using a vibrator every night this week and it's got me a little desensitized..."

He snorted and went back to watching the meters. I was dying to have a look at the readings. My hips shook and my teeth ground but I was no closer to coming. Damn it! Why would I have to get one of these types? Why'd he have to pick the one test I might not pass today? I squeezed my eyes shut, trying to will myself to come. I imagined him inside me, thrusting in, no mercy, no stopping, and yet in complete control...

I whimpered out loud and broke my own reverie. He was looking down at my face now, a little bit of pity and a little bit of anger on his. "I don't..." he began.

You know I'm desperate when I interrupt, one method of verbal interface that always annoys me when other people do it to me. "Please, sir, just a little longer. I... I want you so much. I wish you could just fuck me, stick your hard cock in me, sir, please, anything, sir, please..." I stopped myself before I said anything else stupid. I'd called him sir, hadn't I. Inside I cursed myself for manifesting old, stupid habits, things I thought

I was done with.

But if I was really done with them, I wouldn't be cruising a place like this for rough sex, for sex without mercy, would I.

His look mutated to a cat-like bemusement, a little hungry, a little distant. "What are you really looking for?"

"Nothing, just a good fuck, dammit, even if I have to beg to get it, understand?"

"Oh, I understand," he said, and began to shake the vibrator with his hand. "Peg these meters for me, sweetie, come on, do it for me, honey."

The come started at the tip of my clit like fire, and ran over the skin of my cunt like live acid, shaking me and making me howl, but it was all on the surface and my vag was gasping like a fish. That's what I get for abusing that stupid vibrator.

He ripped the device from me and I gasped even though it didn't hurt. He was smiling. "It was good enough," he said. "Pull up your pants and follow me."

At his loft the back of my mind noticed things like his Ikaru rig and charts of hardcopy on the wall. The thought went through my mind--he's some kind of project technologist, too, maybe a hardware engineer. We "soft"-ware types, cogno/comm types like me especially, we're almost more like guinea pigs than we are like scientists. But I wasn't really thinking about talking shop with this guy, I was following him behind a paper screen to a low futon bed, where he pushed me down and, one hand on the back of my neck, started undressing himself with the other. He stepped back to finish and when he stood completely naked in front of me, it seemed somehow that in nakedness there is power, and my clothes denoted me the poor, weak one. (No, I can never shut off the symbology filter, so just get used to it.) He leaned down to me, one hand tugging the thin ribbons around my neck while the other slipped inside my jeans, down into the wet place, and I prayed silently to myself that he would put his fingers in me--he did. One, then two, the knuckles widening me as he maneuvered the second one in, and my eyes closed and my mouth opened like I was giving thanks to the saints.

And especially to Amanda & Kerry for their many years of service on the NELA Board!

Then his hand was at my throat and that little question (what if I go home with a psycho?) flitted by, but he was growling in my ear “You like that? Is this what you like?” and me answering “yes yes yes...”

The hand at my throat threw me back and he tugged my jeans down around my ankles. He stood with his knees touching mine and indicated his bobbing cock with his hands. “Sit up.”

I did.

“Come here and breathe on me.”

I knew what he meant, and I opened my mouth around the helmeted head of his cock. He was good and thick, heavy with veins and angry red.

“Go on,” he prompted. But I hesitated. I’ve never been good at sucking cock, and given this guy’s penchant for tests and shit I worried what he’d do (or not do) if I weren’t good.

“Come on, if you want it, you better.” I hesitated a second longer and then he pulled my head forward by the hair until my tongue made contact.

So then I sucked him, trying hard to please him. But by the same token I was worried that he’d come and then what would I do... I varied what I did, slurping him up and twisting my neck so he could dig into the soft flesh of my cheek with the tip when he thrust, nibbling the edges and flicking my tongue, until, finally, he said “Enough. Get your fucking boots off.”

I got the fucking boots off, or non-fucking boots, in this case, and my pants, and my g-string, and he pulled the t-shirt over my head and laid me back on the bed. “I’d tie you,” he said, “but that makes it harder to fuck.” I love that word, fuck, when it refers to what it really means. It’s an old word, older than modern English, even older than England itself, and yet it always sounds so current, so now. As in, fuck me now.

He slid on a form-fit condom and it made his cock appear even bigger. Then I realized it had leads of some kind and he snaked them out and stuck them to my clit. Hardware technologist? I thought again. Or did he buy this stuff somewhere? I don’t keep up on new sex toy technologies. But then he was inside me, the first thrust pushing for an awkward moment against me until it slid in, and suddenly I was clinging to him with all my limbs. His whole body was hard and rigid with well-toned muscle, in motion it felt like it rippled, as I imagined his cock rippling inside me. Maybe it was. Who knows what his doodad could do. His thingamajig. His apparatus. But that makes it sound like I’m referring to his anatomy, not to his device. See?

I was losing myself in the sensation, almost not-believing that I actually found what I was looking for. His thrusts got harder, my hands roamed over his shaven head, he slowed down and made each one long and deep, I clawed at his back as if I could push him deeper.

A little bit later, as he held himself above me with his arms, going in with short jerks, he said “Do you go there often?”

My breath was short and it seemed an odd time for a verbal exchange, but I participated. “Aren’t you supposed to ask that before you take me home?”

He ground in hard, painful in the way that I like. “Answer me.”

“I used to, I guess.” I said, realizing I still think of myself as a regular even though none of the old crowd is there anymore, and I’d been there, what, once, twice this year? Only when I’ve been desperate. And before that there was Sasha. “You?”

He shrugged and switched to grinding his hips in a circle. “Not that often. Not enough women there. I mean, worth meeting.”

I tensed, the relationship question surfacing briefly as I read the potential implications of his words. But he was on to his next question already. “Rough you up, fuck you, but safely, huh?”

I nodded, my breath coming in time with his strokes.

“Why’d you call me ‘sir’ back in the bar? I don’t see any discipline chain on you.” He moved his head, a redundancy in the communication as he made a false show of looking for my hidden/non-existent chain.

I tried to shrug but it came out like a spasm. “Don’t know. Just feeling you out, I guess.”

“Good. Because I don’t need no stray pets around here, you know what I mean? I can’t take care of a slave. Too much responsibility.”

“Oh yeah,” I agreed, “too much. I’m not into that kind of thing anyway,” I said, but I knew from the tone of my voice and the way he looked at me that the lie was obvious. “I mean, not anymore,” I amended.

He shut his eyes suddenly and doubled his pace. “Good,” he said again. “Long’s we understand... each other.”

And then he began to come. I knew it not just from the way he clenched and strained in his throat, but because the sensation was channeled through his condom-device (which I’d forgotten about) into me, and in a millisecond I was coming, too. Right from the center, deep rooted in me, the orgasm squeezed my guts and then exploded outward through my bones.

He disengaged and peeled off the gadget, let it fall on the floor as he slumped next to me. “That’s how I make sure my partner always gets off,” he said. “The anxiety of worrying about it was enough to keep me from cruising, before. I mean, there’s only so much... bah, you know what I mean.”

I did. For a lover, a girlfriend, a wife, you could take your time and figure out her favorite things and invest more emotional everyy in her orgasm. But with a one-night trick? “Thoughtful of you,” I answered, unable to move a muscle other than my mouth, or so it seemed.

“Nah, just practical.” He sat up then and I was amazed that he could. He was looking at me and I realized this was an honest-to-god post-coital chat.

“So,” I said, against my better judgement, “why do you think a slave’s too much to handle?”

"Tried once," he said, his face impassive. "Fucked it up. You?"

"Tried once," I said, "Was the one who got fucked up."

We both nodded like: that's what I thought.

"Well anyway," he said. "You want something to eat? Drink?"

I propped myself on an elbow. "Nah, got to get back to work."

"You do?"

I shrugged. I didn't really have to start the next project until next week. But I didn't have anything better to do, and I didn't want... something. "I'm in software," I explained. "It's never finished."

"Hardware neither," he answered, but got up from the bed. He fished for something in his discarded jeans. "Here, my card. Give me a call in a couple of weeks if you want to do this again. Don't bother with the Market. Buncha sleazeballs there."

"Yeah." I took the card and watched his shadow on the other side of the screen.

"Shower?"

"Yeah, okay." We got into the spray not looking at each other. I did not scrub his back and he did not scrub mine. I got dressed and felt very tired. I slipped his card into my back pocket.

"Hey," he said, as I shrugged on my jacket. "What's your name?"

I opened my mouth but nothing came out. Names meant things, depending on what you meant by "name." In the owner-slave world, it meant something specific. He didn't mean it that way, but I couldn't seem to answer it any other way. "Don't have one," I said, then, cursing myself (and Sasha) as I did. "If I did, I wouldn't be here."

He looked at me sidelong and wrapped a towel around his waist. "I thought you were over all that shit."

"Nope," I said. "Never said that."

"Okay then." He took a step forward, his nipples standing out against his hard chest. "I'll give you a name to use with me." But that's all, his eyes said. "If," he added, "you think you really will call me."

"I don't know." I bit my lip.

He held up his hands. "Hey, you're the one playing the game, not me."

He was right. I was the one insisting on this stupid thing. I could just tell him my real name and we could be friends and that would be that. He might even know me from the nets. "Lucin," I said then, "not short for Lucinda."

He smiled. "Terence. Not long for Terry." We shook hands which felt ridiculous. "But I was going to call you something like Cocksucker."

We both blushed and laughed a little to hear it out loud. "You're being sarcastic, right?"

"Not exactly," he said, shifting from one foot to the other. "I mean, you did."

"Yeah, but I suck at sucking."

"Not me you didn't."

"Really?"

"Yes. Alright, Cock Worshiper."

"That's closer," I said.

"Cock Martyr," he went on, "Cock Saint."

"Now you're pushing it."

"So are you," he said, still smiling. But his hand reached for me and even though I stepped back, his long hard fingers still clutched my lapel. "I just want to give you something appropriate, you know." His voice softened with practiced menace and I had one brief moment of curiosity about what he must have been like as a Master, flashes wondering what went wrong, before I put it out of my mind to listen to what he said. "Something that would tell you for sure what I think of you, who you are, what's expected, and what the limit is." It was embarrassing to hear him explain the things I already knew, and not be able to tell him that I knew but that it didn't help, that I was still brain-damaged when it came to certain issue. "So I thought Cocksucker might fit. If it doesn't, you can walk out of here and name yourself or find someone else who'll do it for you." He let go of me with a self-righteous shrug. "I'm just looking for a good screw from time to time."

I held up my hands in apology, not surrender. "You're right. I'm jerking you around. I'm sorry. It was such a terribly nice good screw, too."

"So get out of here why don't you?" He was smiling again and his eyes looked sleepy. "Quit angsty and get some rest."

"Thanks."

"Don't mention it."

I had to walk back to the Market to pick up my two-wheeler, and then there was the ride home in dark wind and deserted streets. For once the only chatter I could hear was from a loose valve, even street signs seemed mute. I didn't have to decide whether I would call him again yet. Next time I emerged from a project maybe. Maybe next time.

Cecilia Tan

Power and Authority Exchange - Barrington - Fri 7:45 PM

A talk aimed at couples, especially those who may be new to a full-time "kink" relationship, as well as singles who are hopeful they'll find Master or Mistress Right. What happens when you go from a fun evening of groveling and spanking to actually living together? Just because I'm a submissive, does that mean I always have to be the one to wash the dishes? How much of the time can you be "in scene" and why? Are you sure you both mean the same thing when you say "slave"? Are master/slave contracts and marriage vows compatible? We provide a framework of common issues that need to be worked out, common pitfalls, and common questions that any individual and couple must answer for themselves.

Annoyance Play

Roughinamorato

General Skills - Bristol - Fri 7:45 PM

I'm touching you. I'm touching you. I'm touching you. Gaaaaah!! Being a Dom or a Top doesn't have to be all serious and beatings. Bondage and pain are great, but sometimes rather than big direct sadism like torture, protocols, or service, you want to enforce your hierarchy through smaller more subtle means: by hitting too softly, or shooting straw wrappers at them, or sticking your finger in your submissive's ear. Yes, my finger is in your ear, and you will leave it there.

Ask Me If I Care: Tough Love for the Kinky

Laura Antoniou

General Skills - Bristol - Sat 1:00 PM

Created in response to the informal (and sometimes impromptu) Q&A sessions after readings, this is an interactive opportunity to talk with the author of the Marketplace series. Don't expect sugar-coated answers: this is Tough Love for tops, bottoms, couples and/or other groupings. Dear Abby can take a hike; Laura may not care, but she respects the community enough to tell the truth formed of 30 freaking years of experience and far too many confessions. Questions may be taken in advance or submitted anonymously at this discussion.

Asking - and Why it's so Scary

Submissive Mindset - 623 - Sat 4:30 PM

Many submissives have a problem asking for what they need or want. When I entered the lifestyle, I was no exception. I found it even harder to ask for what I needed or wanted in our relationship dynamic because I thought it meant I wasn't "submissive enough". The goal of this workshop is to help you learn more about yourself and your needs and wants and be able to effectively communicate these with your partner. This workshop will focus on: Why we need to be able to ask for what we need and want. When to express these needs to our Dominant or Master for the best outcome. What it is we are really looking for. How to ask. What happens if the answer is No? How to avoid feeling taken advantage of; or resentful of; the power exchange dynamic.

Bondage and Floggers and Bear Claws Oh My soumise

General Skills - Rhode Island - Sun 10:00 AM

They feel good, but why? Beyond the neurochemicals that are released during these activities, bondage, impact, and sensation stimulate the "Cinderella" tissue in your body - fascia - and this stimulation creates a bunch of physiological reactions that can affect your body in a variety of ways. This same tissue can also be responsible for some of the symptoms of sub and Dom drop and we'll talk about that. This workshop will explore different BDSM based ways to stimulate the fascial system to improve its function. Stimulation happens for both the Top and the bottom depending on the activity. Healthy fascia is important for mobility, breathing, relief from back pain (as well as other aches and pains), proper pelvic floor function, and it ties into your nervous and immune systems.

Building the BDSM Ritual

Murphy Blue

Spirituality - Tiverton - Sun 2:00 PM

With the amount of energy and focus produced from the common activities of BDSM play, it is no surprise that some ritualists let those acts play a powerful part in some of their ceremonies. Like blood, sex or intense faith in the past, Kink activities can offer some serious intensity to a ritual when it is wanted or needed. This workshop focuses on ways to add BDSM acts to your rituals by paying attention to what the ritual needs, identifying what an act can and can't be perceived as, and filling in gaps that may exist in the ritual. Please bring either a kinky toy and/or a willingness to have such a toy used on or by you.

Consent and Entitlement: The Yin and Yang of BDSM

Bydarra

Power and Authority Exchange - Barrington - Sat 10:45 AM

These are integral parts of BDSM which generate much controversy. Consent speaks to the self-determination of those who relinquish their power, however temporarily, to another. It is more of a tesseract than a linear scale while the other side of the coin, entitlement, addresses the heart of power exchange. To discuss one without the other can lead to ambiguity. Come join in a discussion designed to help you examine your own relationship to these concepts.

But there is a creative challenge to being just disobedient enough to entertain, divert, and involve a top in playful reactions ranging from a laugh to lighthearted punishment. Learn the basics of what it takes to walk that very fine line between being annoying or amusing; whiny or whimsical.

Dating Outside our Species: is Vanilla a Bad Word?

Danie

General Skills - Wickford - Sun 10:00 AM

The term "vanilla" is used to refer to someone who is not, by our definition, kinky. We have all heard it, often being used in a negative way. But let's face it: the world is full of vanilla people. Is it possible to form functional emotional and/or erotic relationships with them? Our presenter has been in a happy and sometimes painfully honest relationship with a non-kinkster for over 13 years. We will talk about dating across the flavor line, including discussing our needs (and those of our partners) and ways to get them met in the longer term.

From the Sensual to the Sadistic: Calibration =

Good Scenes For Every Body

Sara Scalper,

Impact - Kingston - Sat 10:45 AM

What is calibration? Well, the dictionary definition is "the act of checking or adjusting the accuracy of an instrument." Applying this concept in a BDSM context in a scene, a top's body is the instrument. The top can adjust their movements, what implements they use, the intensity of their use, the patterns they're used in, etc. to become more "in tune" with the bottom, which results in a more satisfying scene for all. Topy folks will learn how to negotiate safely and thoroughly with bottoms, clearly read communication signals given off during scenes, and calibrate their actions for longer and more satisfying scenes. Bottomy folks will learn what to look for when negotiating with a potential top as well as ways to communicate how they're feeling during a scene to assist with calibration.

Raven Kaldera

All sadists are dominants, all masochists are submissives, right? Dominants penetrate, submissives are penetrated, right? Well, no. In the real world, it's much, much more complicated. Some dominants like strong sensation, rough play, and to be able to be in their own live porn movie ... and have it all done just the way they like it, and still remain entirely in control. Who can they turn to for this topping from the bottom? Can their s-types be taught to "bottom from the top" as a service? This class will discuss the ways in which this can be done comfortably for both parties, as well as demonstrating that activities never have to define roles in a power dynamic. Come and brave this taboo subject - let's bring it from darkness into light!

In this workshop we will look at an array of pop-culture archetypes from James Bond to Star Trek, Glee to Downton Abbey, and everywhere in between, with a focus on how we can use these archetypes as "shortcuts" to create shared context and help us get from the planning to the playing faster and more enjoyably.

Violent Displays of Affection: Connection and Intimacy through Rough Body Play Roughinamorato

Impact - Bristol - Sun 11:45 AM

It's easy to focus on details of form and technique with rough body play; it's sensational (in all forms of the word), loud, sometimes there's even screaming. But the truly powerful part of it is in its ability to connect at a deep and primal level. The raw flow of power exchanged back and forth between a Top and a bottom during rough body play happens viscerally; when you know your play well enough to let technique guide your hands, you can pay attention to the connection, whether it's raw primal fucking energy, forging a deeper connection, intimacy, the beauty of power exchange, or even just fun and laughter in coming together to let go. Tears of pain mingle with tears of joy, violence and tenderness blur together, and something deep and special can happen.
